

Jehovah God to Christopher Columbus

Prophetic word when he feared for his life;
being on the shoreline of the coast of Panama.

Oh fool, so slow to believe and to serve your God, the God of all!
What more did I do for Moses or for My servant David?
I have had you in my care from your mother's womb. When I saw you a grown man, I caused your name to resound most greatly over the earth.
I gave you the Indies, which are so rich a section of the world, and you have divided them according to your desires.
I gave you the keys of the gates of the ocean which were held with such great chains.
You were obeyed in many lands and you have won a mighty reputation for yourself among Christians.
What more did I do for the people of Israel when I led them out of Egypt, or for David, that shepherd boy whom I made a king of the Jews?
Turn yourself to Me and acknowledge your sins. My mercy is infinite.
Even your old age will not prevent you from achieving great things for My domains are many and vast.
Abraham was more than a hundred years old when he begot Isaac.
And Sarah, was she a girl? You cry for help with doubt in your heart.
Ask yourself who has afflicted you so grievously and so often – God or the world?
The privileges and the covenants which God has given you will not be taken back by Me.
Nor do I say to them who have served Me that I meant it otherwise, or that it should be taken in another sense; nor do I inflict torments to show My power.
My way is to fulfill My promises with increase.
Thus I have told you what your Creator has done for you and for all men.
I have revealed to you some of those rewards which are waiting for you for the many toils and dangers which you have endured in the service of others.
Fear not, but have faith. All these tribulations are written on tablets of marble and there is a reason for them.
